

CALL FOR LEADERSHIP NOMINATIONS 2022-2023

The American Political Science Association Political Communication Section is seeking nominations, including self-nominations, for leadership officers for 2022-2023. The following leadership officer positions are open and currently seeking nominations:

Vice Chair (two-year term; then serves for two-years as chair)

The Vice-Chair is the Chair-Elect and succeeds the Chair at the end of the Chair's two-year term. The Vice-Chair will assist the Chair and will assume the duties of the Chair when the Chair is not present. The Vice-Chair will succeed to the office of Chair in the case of an unscheduled vacancy in the Chair.

Secretary/Treasurer (two-year term)

The Secretary/Treasurer shall keep minutes of meetings of the Section and the Executive Committee and will communicate to the membership and to other organizations on behalf of the Executive Committee. The Secretary/Treasurer shall also maintain financial records of the Section and be responsible of submitting an annual financial report to the Business Meeting of the Section and to the APSA.

At-large members Executive Committee (two people who serve 1-year terms)

The at-large members of the Executive Committee consult with the Chair, Vice-Chair, Program Chair, Secretary/Treasurer, and Chair of the Nominating Committee on section-related matters.

2024 Program Chair (1-year service as program chair; this person typically assists the program chair the year before they serve in the position and then one year after in the role of evaluating submissions)

The Program Chair will organize scholarly meetings, convention panels, and other programs for the APSA, regional associations or related disciplines as requested by the Executive Committee. In carrying out these duties, the Program Chair will make an effort to assure that the various interests of the association are represented.

Joint Publications Committee Member (three-year term)

The Joint Publications Committee shall consist of a chairperson and six members, three appointed by the political communication division of ICA and three appointed by the political communication section of APSA. Members of the committee will serve three-year terms, and one member of the committee will be elected each year by the section membership. The Joint Publications Committee will be responsible for choosing an editor and/or editors for the journal Political Communication and for Political Communication Report (PCR). Members of the committee may also consider the development of new publication outlets sanctioned by the section.

Nominating Committee Chair (three-year term)

The Chair of the Nominating Committee is responsible for appointing members to the Nominating Committee, convening the Nominating Committee, and ensuring that the nominations for office of the Nominating Committee are made available to the Secretary/Treasurer in order for that officer to circulate the slate of nominations to the membership of the Section at least 10 days in advance of the annual meeting of the Section

Please email nominations, including self-nominations, to Joshua Scacco (jscacco@usf.edu), Chair of the APSA Political Communication Section Nominating Committee by Friday, August 26, 2022.
