

CALL FOR LEADERSHIP NOMINATIONS 2022-2023

The American Political Science Association Political Communication Section is seeking nominations, including self-nominations, for leadership officers for 2023-2024.

At-large members Executive Committee (two people who serve 1-year terms)

The at-large members of the Executive Committee consult with the Chair, Vice-Chair, Program Chair, Secretary/Treasurer, and Chair of the Nominating Committee on section-related matters.

2025 Program Chair (1-year service as program chair; this person typically assists the program chair the year before they serve in the position and then one year after in the role of evaluating submissions)

The Program Chair will organize scholarly meetings, convention panels, and other programs for the APSA, regional associations or related disciplines as requested by the Executive Committee. In carrying out these duties, the Program Chair will make an effort to assure that the various interests of the association are represented.

Joint Publications Committee Member (three-year term)

The Joint Publications Committee shall consist of a chairperson and six members, three appointed by the political communication division of ICA and three appointed by the political communication section of APSA. Members of the committee will serve three-year terms, and one member of the committee will be elected each year by the section membership. The Joint Publications Committee will be responsible for choosing an editor and/or editors for the journal Political Communication and for Political Communication Report (PCR). Members of the committee may also consider the development of new publication outlets sanctioned by the section.

Awards Committees

We are also seeking committee members for the following awards to be handed out at the 2024 APSA Meeting. If you are interested in serving on any of these committees please reach out.
